About Stanmer

Its history The park has been shaped by human activity for 5000 years. In the 18th century the Pelham family bought and landscaped the park and built Stanmer House.

Its buildings Stanmer House is a beautifully restored country house open 365 days a year, serving food from 10am. There is a church opposite. A cafe and accessible public toilet can be found in Stanmer Village.

Its natural beauty Stanmer is the gateway to the South Downs National Park with open access land perfect for a walk or picnic. It lies in the heart of 'The Living Coast', which is recognised by UNESCO as a world Biosphere region that connects people and nature, to pioneer a positive future for all.
